CLASS HISTORY

In the fall of 1947, twelve of the twenty-two students of Mr. Fleming's ~~KRME~~ eighth grade class started school at Warrenton Public. These twelve students consisted of Ronnie Graichen, Jimmy Lanier, Danny Hale, Weyman Keyser, Larry Jones, Donald Knotts, Vernice Donev, Doris Rodic, Patti Craven, Sherry Lenhard, and Judy Mattson.

In the fall of their second year of school they had two new arrivals, Delores Huber and Jimmy Corkill. But much to our regret Dan Hale left.

In the third year, fall of 1949, we had three more new arrivals, Billy Berg, Lloyd Hagnas, and Beverly Herglund.

In the fourth grade we had two more new arrivals, Myrna Jackson and Danny Garden. And much to our glee Danny Hale also returned that year. Giving us a total of 19.

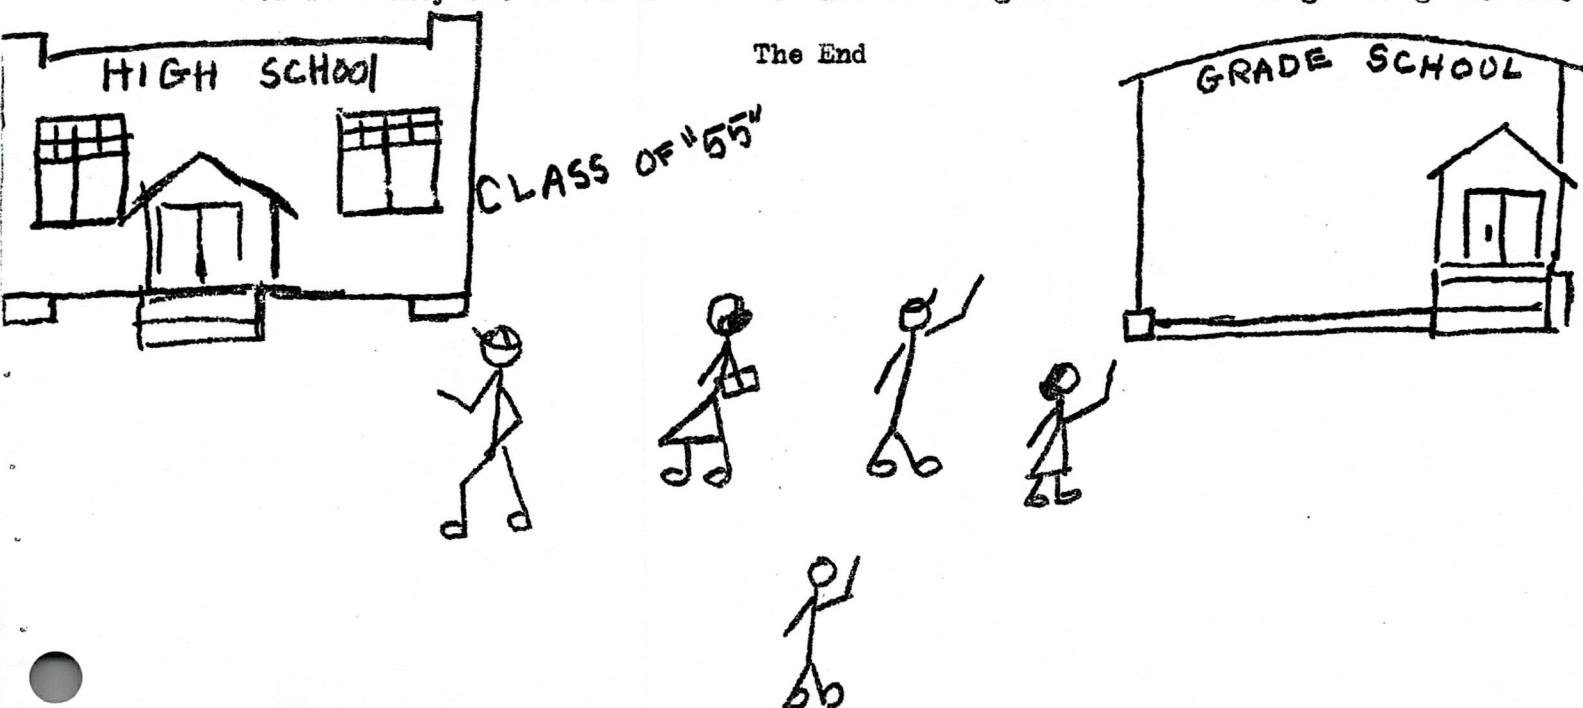

Our fifth year of school Mary Ellen Ferrell entered our merry group.

In the sixth grade, Helen Pike and Bobby Moore arrived. But much to our regret Myrna Jackson left. Giving us a total of 21.

Our seventh year of school was uneventful as far as new arrivals went.

In the eighth year of school, Myrna Jackson returned. Giving us an even number of 22 students.

Now we twenty-two students look forward to the grand honor of being in high school.

POEMS AND JOKES

HOMEWORK

I blithely dance
Home from school,
A day of labor ended.
And blithely from my mind
Has skipped
Some problems to be mended.

And then comes dinner,
My delight.
And Mom would ask--
Homework tonight?
Yes? Well, then,
You'd better go
Because you do your Homework slow.

Then I plod up to my room
Once happy, gay, now in gloom.
And now my problems do attack,
My brain does for an answer rack.

Oh, do teachers ever know
That children dislike homework so?
Oh, why don't they just set us free,
Trade homework for some liberty!

MR. MOON

Mr. Moon! You sail so high,
On the ocean of the sky.
You hide the little twinkling stars,
You even hide the planet Mars.
You first are bright, and then are weak,
And with the clouds play hide and seek.

Mr. Moon! You're shining down,
On the country and the town.
Filling folks with terrible tears,
With your shadows strange and clear.

Mr. Moon! We knew you're there!
Moonlight, moonlight, everywhere,

USELESS

RAY: "What did the bald man say when he received a comb for his birthday?"

BOB: "I don't know. What?"

RAY: "Thank you very much I'll never part with it."

(All poems and jokes taken from "Junior Scholastic")

LESS WORK

SUSAN: "I wish I had lived a thousand years ago."

BETTY: "Why?"

SUSAN: "Think of all the history I wouldn't have to learn."

A FEW WORDS

VISITOR: "How did your horse win the race?"

JOCKEY: "Well, I just kept whispering in his ear: 'Roses are red, Violets are blue,
Horses that lose are made into glue.'"

BOWN PAYMENT

Jimmy: "How much am I worth, Mother?"

Mother: "Why your worth a million dollars to me, Jimmy."

Jimmy: "Can you advance me a dime on it?"

ONE LAYER GONE

A four-year old had gotten a terrible sunburn and it was beginning to peel. One day his Mother heard him muttering to himself as he wased his, " Only for years old and wearing out already."

JOKE OF THE WEEK

Roy: "What do Abraham Lincoln & Dwight Eisenhower have in # common?"

HAL: "A Gettysburg address."

SHORT STORIES

LIFE OF HENRY HUDSON

By, Mary Ellen Ferrell

A British explorer whose greatest work, entitled him to lasting recognition. He explored the river, bay, and strait named for him. In 1607 he sailed from London on a ship manned by ten men and a boy to discover the northwest passage. He set sail in 1609, for North America in a vessel called the "Hulf Moon". A year later he again set in search of a northwest passage to Asia. On this trip he discovered Hudson Strait and Hudson Bay. The crew suffered terribly in the winter and finally mutinied. Hudson's son and seven sailors were set adrift and were never heard from again.

CAROL'S LETTER

By, Pat Craven

"Oh Kathy," called Mrs. Bell, "I just got a letter from your cousin, Carol I mean. It seems she wants to have you visit her in Philadelphia."

"When Mom? Can I start packing? How long can I stay?"

"Whoa! I haven't said you could go yet, and of course we have to talk to your father about it."

"Oh Mom, please talk Dad into letting me go. Please!" pleaded Kathy.

"I'll try, but it seems to me that Carol is a stuffed pigeon because this letter sounds premeditated. Here, you read it.

June 6, 1949

Dear Mrs. Bell,

I would like to have your sweet daughter Kathy visit us at our Villa in Philadelphia. I would like her to stay for approximately one month. I have enclosed one round trip plane ticket. Thank you very much.

Yours sincerely,

Carol King

"Oh, Mom, it sounds like she hates to write to me, but since she sent the ticket and practically demands that I come I suppose I'll have to go." But I'm not to go as I was before."

"But Kathy, we haven't talked to your Dad about it yet and he won't be home until next week. Oh, what will we do, I guess the only thing to do is wait." sighed Mrs. Bell.

"Oh, where has Dad gone now?" retorted Kathy, "I was so hoping he would be home for two days at least."

"I know it is a hard thing to have to live without having your Dad around three-fourths of the time, but since he's got a good job it's almost wor---"

Kathy interrupted her mother excitedly, "Mom! Look out the window, Dad's coming up the drive, and look at the date on the letter, it's 1949 and this is 1955. Mom, it must have gotten lost in the mail and the post office just found it and thinking that we might want it anyway, sent it to us."

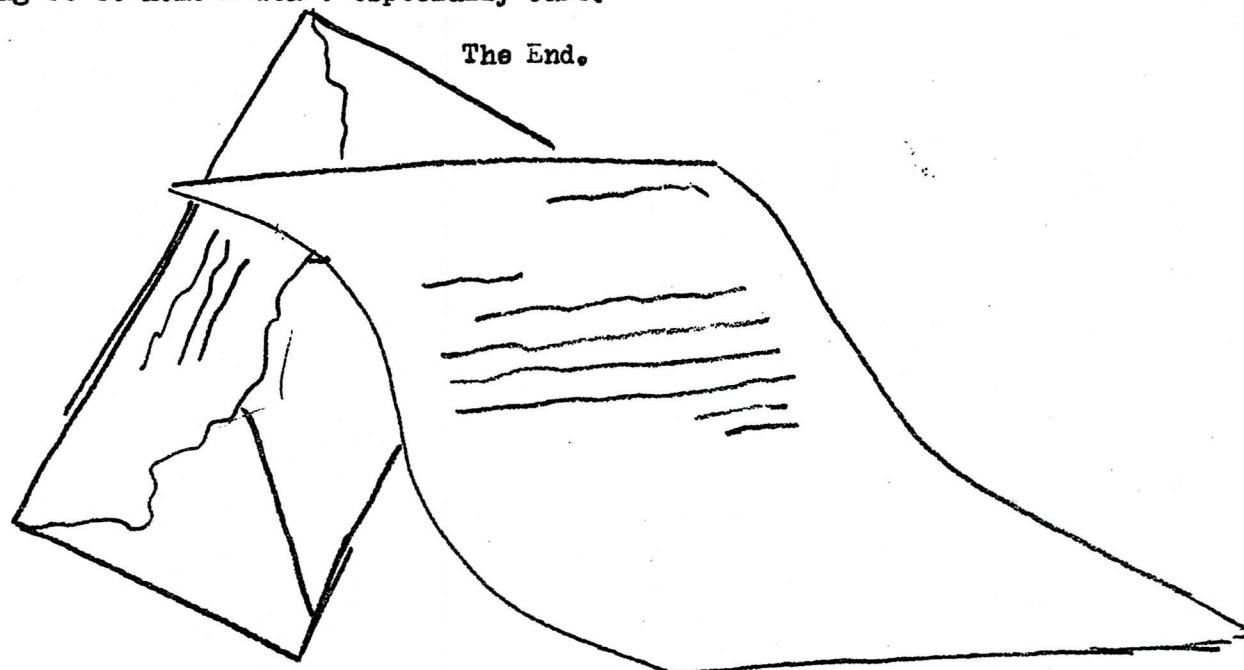

"And that explains why it had that premeditated look, I wonder why your father is not home now?"

"I got a promotion and will be staying in town from now on," hollared Mr. Bell as he rushed through the house.

"Hurray!" yelled Kathy and Mrs. Bell in unison.

"Well, I don't get my trip to Philadelphia," sighed Kathy, "but as long as Dad's going to be home I don't especially care."

The End.

Henry Hudson 15-E

ALONE

You're sitting on the couch all alone. There's no one in the house except Rhoda, your older sister, and she's in the other room.

Why Gloria? Why you of all people? Why are you alone with only a book for company?

Think back. Remember when Kitty called and you brushed her off? Dear Kitty, she was so sweet. She wasn't a fair-weather friend like you. She was always there, waiting to help you, willing to give her noontime to help you with some important schoolwork. It was always Kitty who defended you when other kids talked behind your back. It was Kitty who confided to you her secret ambitions.

Remember November 9th. That was your big night, the night of your party. Kitty couldn't come. She was sick in bed with a cold.

That didn't bother you did it? After all, what was Kitty compared to a bunch of boys?

After the party a lot of boys asked you for dates. You were so busy. Too busy for Kitty. She called. She tried. But you were too busy to even call her back.

Pretty soon the boys began to tire of you. Even your new girl friends got tired of the way you flirted with their boyfriends.

Now you're alone. Wait a minute, there's Kitty. She'll come. She'll come over to keep you company.

Pick up the phone Gloria. Pick it up and dial Kitty's number. You have to put it down, don't you? Why? No answer. Kitty's at Janet's house.

Now you're really alone. Not even Kitty to keep you company. Remember what Kitty always told you? "A girl's best friend is herself." If that's true then admit it, Gloria. You weren't a very good friend.

SHORT STORIES

The Outsider

As I rounded the corner, I stopped and listened with horror! The "big wheels" of the school were talking about me! I flattened myself against the wall and listened.

"We don't want that 'Bohunk' at our party!"

"And have you seen her clothes?"

"Have I? You couldn't miss seeing those rags!"

"Sally, have you heard that Patti Lou said that Jenny Jay saw her cheating in the American History Exam?"

"She needs to! I bet she doesn't know that George Washington was the first President!"

"Of course not. She's no American!"

I turned and fled. Tears flooded my eyes.

How cruel can people be? "Bohunk" is a mean name. I am a Bohemian!

We are as clean as anyone. What if my clothes are outmoded and patched-- they are clean! I didn't cheat in that exam. I'm as much American as anyone. They all came from a foreign country once. What if they came years ago and I recently? we were all created equal by God! But they can't realize that. Oh, Mamusia told me it would be like this. She knew.

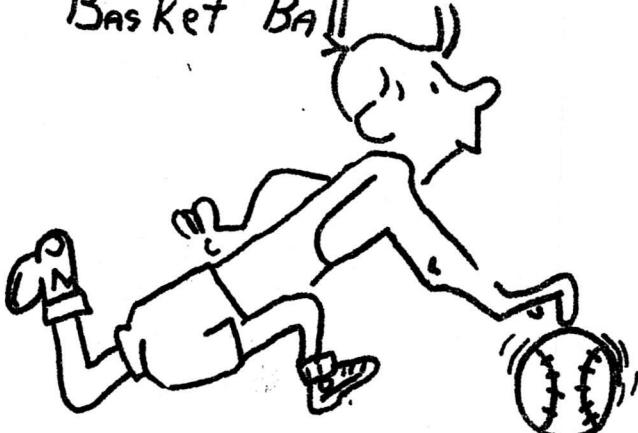

That night I cried myself to sleep. But it did no good. I remain the "Bohunk," the outsider.
